President and General Manager of Peavey Grain Company Was Drowned In Lake Michigan Last Saturday. Said He Lost Money in Speculation. Company Decides to Retire From the Commission Business.

Chicago, July 11.-Close upon the death of James Pettit, who was found dead from drowning in Lake Michigan near the Moraine hotel Saturday morning, came the announcement of the retirement from the brokerage business of the firm of which he was president and general manager.

A number of telegrams were sent out by the Peavey Grain company to its agents and customers all over the country. It was stated that owing to the death of Mr. Pettit the company had decided to retire from the commission business in Chicago.

The Peavey Elevator company, which is a separate corporation and whose trademark (PV) may be seen on the elevators of almost every agricultural center in the country and lake and Mississippi steamboats, is not affected, however.

CONGRESS' WORK SHOWS POLITICS

Legislators Are Engaged In Making a President.

TRYING TO HELP THE PARTIES.

Factional Rows of the Republicans Do Not Tend to Improve Chances of Success-Men All Striving For Same End, Though They Differ Widely as to the Best Methods.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, July 11.-[Special.]-It is perfectly plain that the present congress, like all others preceding a pres idential election, is engaged in making a president. At least the members of congress believe that they are shaping policies which will determine whether the Republicans or Deme ats will win in the next campaign.

Oftentimes the congress before presidential campaign is devoted to making candidates for the different parties. Such cannot be said at this time, for it has been quite a foregone conclusion that Taft will be renominated by the Republicans, although friends of La Follette are trying to bring him forward, and nothing that the Democrats have done thus far has Carolina, all seeking to increase the Dr. Butler Resigns From Educational been for or against any of the men mentioned as possible candidates.

"The Best in the World"

As the bride led her friends into her cool, spotless kitchen, they broke into a chorus of approval.

"Well, I am proud of it," she said, "and proudest of all of my stove. It's a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove, and I think they are the best in the world. They toast, roast, broil and bake equally well-really to perfectionand the kitchen stays much cooler and cleaner than with any other range. This stove cuts my kitchen work almost in half."

There is no wood or coal to carry for a New Perfection; no ashes to clean up. It is ready for use as soon as lit; out at a touch of the fingers-economical as well as quick and convenient.

Chinese Tea Seed Oil.

Tea seed oil is the name applied to an oil expressed from the seed of the Camellia sasanquia. This is not the tea tree (Camellia thea), nor can its leaves be used It grows principally in Honan, but is found wherever the wood oil tree grows. The seeds are gathered in October, and the extracted oil usually reaches the market in Hankow about the middle of winter. It is used by the Chinese as a cooking oil.

PEPYS, THE DIARIST.

Pronouncing the Name of the Garrulous Old Gossip.

Lovers of Pepys often dispute over the correct pronunciation of his name. The form Peeps is the one that has chief authority on its side, and it is according to analogy in other like spellings, such as Wemyss, pronounced Weems. Peeps still holds good at Cambridge and dates from its bearer's own time. It is also retained by the Free to Attend Its Sessions, Prefer representatives of Samuel's sister, the Pepys Cockerell family, who are heirs to his fame and some of his property. The late Rev. J. W. Ebsworth, an indefatigable collector and editor of ballads, adopts this pronunciation in his pleasing stanzas on "A Gossip at Dept-

A disturbing element in the discussion is that the branch of the family represented by the Earl of Cottenham pronounce the name Peppis.

No bearer of the name has ever been known as Peps, though Ashby Sterry. a respected member of the Pepys club. follows this common but erroneous pronunciation in this excellent epi gram, published in the London Graphic November, 1891:

"The Great Unknown."

For thirteen years the author of "Waverley" was unknown. Indeed, the country spoke of him as "the great unknown," a pseudonym Sir Walter Scott often employed in writing. But on Feb. 23, 1827. Sir Walter gave a dinner party to which, among others, Lord Meadowbank, the judicial magnate, who chanced to know his host's secret, was invited. Then when the toasts were being drunk Meadowbank, with Scott's permission, got up and proposed the health of "the great unknown, Sir Walter Scott." The effect was magical, and the news spread through the country like wildfire. That dinner and the secret it disclosed were the most talked of events of the year.
